

PARENTAL RESPONSIBILITY

The Children Act 1989 acknowledges the fact that parents do not always live at the same address as their children.

The Act says that it is best for children if they are brought up by their family. 'Family' includes the people the child lives with as well as people with parental responsibility who live elsewhere.

The following people have parental responsibility:-

Married Parents	Automatically
Mothers of non marital children	Automatically
Fathers of non marital children	By court order on his application
	By formal agreement with mother
	By being appointed guardian
Guardian	By court order
	By appointment in writing or will
Adoptive Parents	Automatically with adoption
Parents of children in care	Share parental responsibility with local authority
Other person with whom the child lives	By court order

Divorce or separation does not affect parental responsibility unless the court makes an order. The court will not make an order unless it is better for the child to do so than not to do so.

Parental responsibility can only be lost by court order or adoption.

All people with parental responsibility must be treated equally. This means that they are all entitled to reports, invitations to parents' meetings etc. Schools must, therefore, keep up to date records of all people with parental responsibility, as well as any court orders relating to the child (ie old custody orders or Children Act 1989 orders).

On the reverse of this letter is a form for you to fill in and return as soon as possible. Please read it carefully. If you require help to fill in the form just call in to school to see the Head Teacher or School Business Manager.
